Issued June 28, 2023

PUBLIC NOTICE OF SEASONAL FLEXIBILITY

The Citrus Season Extension for 2023-2024 is hereby issued June 28, 2023, because several oranges filed late, three lemons requested additional ripening time, and the grapefruit caucus refused to adjourn.

1. Findings

- The sun was consulted and seemed broadly supportive.
- At least one lime claimed it was "almost ready" for eleven consecutive weeks.
- Citizens expressed concern that citrus season ended before they had emotionally processed marmalade.
- The Ministry of Smoothies warned of a potential zest gap.

2. Extension Period

Citrus season shall be extended from July 1, 2023 through March 32, 2024. Because March 32 does not technically exist, all departments shall observe it as a floating bureaucratic feeling rather than a calendar date.

3. Color Compliance

Citrus Class	Temporary Approved Color Behavior
Orange	May remain orange, orange-ish, or motivationally tangerine.
Lemon	May be yellow, pale yellow, or disappointed gold.
Lime	May be green, suspicious green, or "not a lemon, please stop asking."
Grapefruit	May be pink if it signs the waiver.

4. Market Conduct Rules

- No citrus may roll dramatically away from a vendor table without filing Form ROLL-9.
- Zest shall not be hoarded, cornered, shorted, hyped, or discussed on financial television.
- All oranges must maintain a professional peel-to-pulp ratio in public buildings.
- Any lemon making eye contact with a car battery must be supervised.

CERTIFIED: CITRUS SEASON IS EXTENDED UNTIL MORALE IMPROVES

5. Emergency Marmalade Reserve

The Republic shall maintain a strategic reserve of two jars, one spoon, and a handwritten note that says "probably enough." Withdrawal from the reserve requires a quorum of breakfast officials.

6. Frequently Unanswered Questions

Question	Official Response
Is this enforceable?	Only spiritually.
Can a lime appeal?	Yes, but only in cursive.
What about kumquats?	The committee became quiet and moved on.
Do citizens need a permit?	Not unless they describe something as artisanal twice in one paragraph.

Appendix B: Approved Citrus Greetings

Good zest to you. May your rind be resilient. Please stop juggling near the fountain.

7. Closing Proclamation

Therefore, the Citrus Season Extension is adopted, posted, ignored, rediscovered, and adopted again for administrative flavor.
